Large Amount of Property Recovered to the State-Important Decision by Judge Hines. State of Indiana versus The Indiana Central Canal Company.

bundred feet in length and one hundred sact twenty in width.

The facts of the case, as I find from the evidence, are substantially as follows: That the real estate in controversy was originally received by the plaintiff from the United States; that the plaintiff from the United States; that the plaintiff in her system of Internal improvements located the western arm or side cut of her canal in Indianapolis, through her own ground known as the military reservation, and that, after the location of the canal, that part of the reservation lying south of the canal; was surveyed. Market street was extended west, and the State laid out into lots, and sold that part of the reservation into lots, and sold that part of the reservation. purchasers a certificate of saie; that the General Assembly ratified and confirmed the sale as made; that the conditions of the saie having been complied with, a deed was executed by the Stave to the assignee of the purchasers, under which the defendant now claimstitle and powession; neither the act of the Legislature authorizing the sale, nor the advertisement, nor the certificate of sale, nor the act of the Legislature confirming the sale, nor the deed given the assignee above named, specified, mentioned, or re-referred, to the ground in controversy, in terms.

The State now claims that the property was not included in the sale, and that she still has the title to ft, and is entitled to its possession. I take it to be clear that as the title to the property did not pass by the express terms of the Legislature, it could only pass by impli-the deet or certificate of sale, or the acts of the Legislature, it could only pass by implication or construction as being included in the general description—or by some act of the plaintiff apart from the mere deed. The authority to make the sale was by two acts of the General Assembly, one authorizing the Governor, and one the Governor and Audit r of State to sell "The Northern Division of the Canal, and the water power and apartic. of State to sell "The Northern Division of the Canal, and the water power and appurtenances thereunt belonging." The advertisement of sale described the property to be sold as "all the right, title, interest, claim, and demand which the State holds in or to the Northern division of the Central Canal, situated in the State of Indiana, including its banks, margins, toepaths, side-cuts, feeders, right of way, dams, water power, structures, and all appurtances thereunto belonging." The sale, which was made in pursuance of the advertisement, was reported to the Legislature, was confirmed, and a deed given, containing the same description. It factear that in this description there is a latent ambiguity, and that water power," and "appurtenances," might nolude it, but not by mene con-truction. Evidence de hors the deed must show that by dence de hors the deed must show that the property was an appurfenance, or was used or dedicated to the use of the water power. I can have no doubt that the purchaser took from the State the fee of sil lands which were in use for the water power, or the navigation of the canal or which were equired for, or dedicated to such use. For such dands would be appurtenant to the canal. In this view, it would be necessary for the defendant, in suctiniting her title to the premises, to show that they were in use for water power, or dedicated to such use. It would be sufficient to establish a dedication. It leaves to show that the Canal Commissioner located the side us that the the the or of using this ground for either water power or havigation. Whether it was so dedicated seems to me to be the main question of this case. It is established by the evidence that the real estate in controversy has never been used for either the one time prior to the date of the sale, a building was erected upon a very small portion of it, and occupied for the storage of tools and implements, used in the constructure, and bossibly, in the repair of the canal. The building was a small and temporary one, only a few feet square, and placed as closely to the water, and as high upon the embankment of the canal as the nature of the ground would permit. Certainly this, by itself, would be insufficient to establish a presumption that himself of the certificate, asked information of the Governor as to the nature of the property sold, and this property was pointed out as a part. Conwell thereupon procured the assignment of the certificate of sale, and the deed from the State to himself. The evidence establishes that at the time of the sale, this specific property was not mentioned, but that the sale was strictly according to the description in the dovertisement. Can the description in the Governor and Auditor estop the plaintiff? I think not. The sale was complete. The State, on failure of the purchasers to comply with the contract, had her remedy in damages. She sought no new contract and procured none. She was guilty of no fraud. The acts authorizing the sale were letters of sittories, sne sought no new contract and procured none. She was guilty of no fraud. The acts anthorizing the sale were letters of attoracy, her agents were limited to certain specified property, and they could not extend their powers by their own declaration. The general principles of iaw is that the State is not bound by the acts of her agents beyond the letter of their authority. So I think the State not estopped by this declaration. Whether she would have been, by declarations at the time of the sale, it is not necessary to inquire. I have not admitted in the consideration of the case, testimony of what certain witnesses, who were present at the sale "understood" was being sold, or rather what they "understood" was being sold, or rather what they "understood" the description read at the sale to include these understandings, were matters of opinion only and not facts upon which a court can base a finding.

The Religion of Mr. D'Israell-How the Peet Regers Converted Him.

The London Jewish Chronicle, a very high authority among the people whose viewal it advocates, has the following remarks in reference to the new Premier and Judaism: "There seems, indeed, to be a singular mistake in the relation of Mr. D'Israeli to Judaism. Some Jews censule him as an apostate, and urge his apostacy as an instance of tergiversation. Some Christians sooff at him as a Jew, with a singular disregard of all they owe to the Hebrew race. Now, the fact is that, in plain English, D'Israeli is neither an apostate nor a Jew. He was born of Hebrew parents. His father, Issae D'Israeli, the author, and his mother, a scion of the Basevis, were members of Sepharadem Jewish families. His grantisther and grandmother, indeed, rest in the Portugese cemetery at Milesend. Beojamin D'Israeli was admitted into the communion of Israel, but his father, thinking fit to quarrel with his synsgogue, failed to teach his child Judaism. From years old, and regretting to find so bright and intelligents youth without religious instruc-tion, took him to Hackney Church. Who will now say that Governor Brown is not a prophet? Every prediction contained in the above extract has been fulfilled to the letter except the last, which is in rapid process of realization. And the most remarkable fact connected with the whole matter is that Joe Brown himself, the prophet, has joined the Republicans and me 'thongry swarm of Abolition emissaries' to bring all the terrible evils upon the South! Among the proceedings was the reading of a letter from Horace Greeley, who, while believing in peace, and avowing an intention to do his best to secure it, says he apprehends that some of the chronic enemies of peace will have to be disarmed, possibly killed, before we can have universal and lasting peace.

A Quiet Day. The day has been comparatively quiet. The Senate was not in session, and the House was engaged on private bills. Washington, May 15—Less than baif the Republican Senators held a consultation at Senator Pomeroy's to-night, in reference to impeachment. The conference continued more than three hours. Senator Wase was present, and also Senator Wilson, who has just returned from New York. The entire subject was discussed, and notes compared as to what Senators could be railed upon for the conviction of the President. It was agreed that the eleventh of the impeachment articles stood the best chance of adoption. It is understood that these Senators are in favor of the vote being taken to morrow, but that the question is to be decided by a full Senate, hence there is no certainty about the question. Fortieth Congress-Second Sessio SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Friday, May 15. HOUSE.

Mr. Woodward effered a preamble relative a letter addressed to Senator Henderson in Missouri members, stating that such comme cations addressed to a Senator sitting in juddent of the President of the United States, a gross breach of privilege on the Senate, as culated to degrade the House and obstructive course of public justice, and concluding with a resolution that a select committee seven be appointed, to inquire if said committee seven be appointed, to inquire if said committee seven be appointed, to inquire if said committee with the House ought to in indignation its own dignity inflict, as well as to what prvisions of the law are necessary to prevent recurrence of the same wrongs, with the potent of the said of the control of the said.

Mr. Garfeld objected to its recoption.

The Speaker saids: The Charl is about to dide the question as to whether the question.

Mr. Garded objected to its reception.
The Speaker said: The Chair is about to decide the question as to whether the question is or is not a question of privilege. In the opinion of the Chair it is not a question of privilege. The wording of the resolution expressly shows that it is not the charge, but the matter alleged, is an infringement of the privilege of the Senate. It has not yet occurred, in the recollection of the Chair, that the House of Representatives has been recognized by the Senate as having charge of the protection of its privileges. If the privileges of a Senator be assailed, that body is competent to protect its own privileges. Nor would the House consent that the Senate of the United States should assume to protect the privileges of the House. The Chair, therefore, does not think the resolution, in its language, presents a question of privilege.

Mr. Eldridge—There is not another allegation in the resolution which does not present the question of privilege.

Mr. Eddridge—If the gentleman from Wisconsin appeals from the decision of the chair, the chair will put the question to the House. Mr. Eldridge—If on on peak the resolution which does not present the question of privilege.

Mr. Eddridge—If on on appeal, but wish to call the attention of the Speaker to the fact that there is another clause in the resolution which does not present the question of privilege.

Mr. Gardeld—I demand the regular order which does not present the question or privi-lege.

Mr. Garfield—I demand the regular order of business; that is the only way to stop it.

Mr. Woodward—I will consent to a modifi-cation of the resolution by striking out that part in reference to the privilege of the Sen-ata. It is not at all essential. If that be the only reason why the resolution is not a ques-tion of privilege, I will strike out that part of it.

Mr. Eldridge—So much the worse; ten times worse.

The Speaker—The question is not debatable. The gentleman from Pennsylvania has modified his resolution by striking out the part referring to an infringement of the privileges of the Senate. The Chair is of opinion still that it is not a question of privilege. The nearest point to it that he can see is found en page 155 of the digest—that of all corrupt combinations. It does not appear from the resolution that any corrupt communication is alleged upon the members of the House, as to the intercourse between them and their colleagues in the Senate. The Chair can not assume in order to make a question of privilege.

Mr. Woodward—Then I ask the unanimous consent of the House to offer the resolution.

Mr. Upsom and others objected.

The House then proceedings were interrupted by Mr. Woodward, who was understood to ask what the gentleman from Missouri, Mr. Pile, meant by making gesticulations and grimaces in an offensive manner; in a manner more worthy of the ring than the House of Representatives.

tions and grimaces in an offensive manner; in a manner more worthy of the ring than the House of Representatives.

The Speaker intimated to Mr. Woodward that his remark was not parliamentary. If the gentleman had a charge to make against any member of the House he would have to make it in the usual form. The Chair did not see what the gentleman complained of.

Mr. Pile, who had wasked to another part of the Hail, said he intended no litsuit, or grimace, or anything of the kind to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Woodward—The gentleman stood here tieman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Woodward—The gentleman stood here making cabalistic signs. (Laughter) As he belongs to a party that claims to have all the moral sense of decency in the country, I inquire what he means by standing on this floor, in presence of the Speaker, and making those grimaces at me.

The Speaker asid that if the gentleman presented a question of privilege, the Chair would rule on it.

Mr. O'Neill—Do such remarks go into the Globe as part of the transactions of this House.

The Speaker—They do.

The gentleman from Pennsylvania rose, claiming to have been improperly treated by the gentleman from Missouri, and the gentleman from Pennsylvania used language which the Chair thought was out of order, as applied to a fellow member. If he has cause of complaint, he should submit the matter for the action of the House.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill for the relief of William Mctonshan, resported last Saturday from the Judiciary Committee, which confirms his title to 19,000 acres of land in California, embracing the Idaho quicksilver mine.

Mr. Washburne inquired whether the title of the property was not in the United States to-day.

Mr. Wilson replied that it was.

Mr. Washburne wanted to know what justice there was in giving this property, worth two or three millions of dollars to McGonahan, or any other man, and way the law, allowing mineral lands to be occupied and taken out of the possession of the Government, should not be repealed.

Mr. Wilson said he could answer those questions in his argument.

Mr. Van Wyck opposed the bill, arguing that the claim had originated in fraud and forgery, and had been propped up by perjury.

Mr. Johnson expressed the belief that Mr. McGarrahon's claim was just.

Mr. Wilson recited facts in the controversy, sustaining the claims of Mr. Garrahon, and arguing against the claim for the New Idea Company, stating if the bill was not passed, the quick silver monopoly in California would control the product and the price of quickstiver.

control the product and the price of quickulver.

After further debate, Mr. Higby moved to table the bill. Rejected—55 to 73.

The bill then passed—78 to 49.

The Speaker presented a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury transmitting a supplemental report on the trade with the British North American Provinces. Referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, and ordered printed.

The Speaker also presented a communication from the General of the Army with reports of the several district commanders in regard to the recent elections in Georgis, North Carolina, South Carolina and Louisiana. Reierred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

Mr. Lawrence, of Obio, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill to establish a department of law, which was ordered printed and recommitted.

Mr. Benjamin from the Committee on Re-

Committee, reported a bill to establish a department of law, which was ordered printed and recommitted.

Mr. Berjamin, from the Committee on Retrenchment, reported a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Navy for copies of the correspondence in reference to the sale of the two ironclads Catawba and Oneida. Referred.

The House then went into Committee of the two ironclads Catawba and Oneida. Referred.

The House then went into Committee of the whole on the State of the Union, Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, in the chair, with the understanding that no further business should be done to-day.

The Speaker notified the House that it was possible the attendance of the House might be desired at the bar of the Senate at twelve o'clock to-merrow.

Mr. Garfield delivered an elaborate prepared speech on the financial question, concluding as follows: "For my part, my course is taken. In view of all the facts of our situation, of all the terrible experiences of the past, both at home and abroad, and of the united testimony of the wisest and bravest statesmen who have lived and labored during the last century, it is my conviction that any considerable increase of the volume of our unconvertible paper money will shatter the public credit, parelyze industry, and oppress the poor; and that the gradual restoration of our ancient standard of value will lead us by the safest and surest path to national prosperity and the steady pursuits of peace.

The committee rose and the House adjourned.

On Thursday last the Journal published approvingly the following dispatch concerning Senator Morton's argument in favor of impeachment:

impeachment:

"His earnestness fixed the artention of all the Senators upon him. One of the strongest points he made was to read the resolution by which the Senate reinstated Stanton, and then call over slowly the names of those who voted for it. From this he reasoned that all whose names he had read had committed themselves to sustain the Tenure-of-Office law, and that he Senatorial oath under which they then acted was as binding as their judicial outh."

A paragraph of it states

"The occasion for convening this meeting is most timely. It is of great importance that advantage should be taken of the brief administration of Mr. Wade, to get through Congress an adequate and well-adjusted Tariff bill; and if our friends are execultys, as we hope they will, we have little doubt but this can be accomplished; but to do this, immediate action will be necessary. Such a council, then, as Mr. Cooper has invited, will be just just in time to concert means to carry out this object."

thus succinctly states the tariff question:

It is a lie to say that American industry derives any benefit from a law which takes money from A, and gives it to B, for nothing. If A were allowed to retain his own money he would expend it on C, D, and E, and get value in return for it. Take the case of a cost costing $50. Under the tariff the cost costs $25, and the bounty is $25 more. Supposing A is allowed to buy his cost of a French manufacturer. He gets a cost worth $25, and has $25 left to buy lumber from C to fence his farm, or to pay D for educating his children. Is not the industry of A, C, and D Americail Industry? It is not foreign in dustry, certainly. But what becomes of B? B is making twenty-five dollars worth of cloth for lifty dollars in money, and cheating A, C and D out of the difference. B was acong a good business in 1860 under a tariff of infeen per cent. But the war broke out and he thought it would be a smart thing, while the people's attention was fixed on the rebela, to go to Washington and get the tariff put up, so as to increase his profits. The money which he stole an 1861 made him greedy for more. The tariff, of course, increased the prices of other things (except articles which we export, and which we have to sell at such prices as other nations are paying,) and B went to let washington again and got the tariff put up a second time, and so he has, done eleven times during the past six years. thus succinctly states the tariff question:

When she said "we"—meaning her family and herself—"quite enjoy an early visit (in the papers) from you, and when there isn't time after breakfast, reserve it for evening reading," it gave me heart to take up again the thread of nothings that constitute my daily task. If I were to select a heading which would always suit this column, it would be—

AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the Medico-Chirurgical Review, on the subject of the Extract of Sursaparilla in certain affections, by Benjamin Travers, F. B.S., etc. Speaking of those diseases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury, he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sursaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

The heading of this article is a violation of orthography, but we do not care if it only does not induce the reader to overlook what we are about to say. It was once a phrase more current in American than in British society and politics, "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" which would go to show that American females have before this generation already meddled in public affairs. We remember to have heard old men speaking of Mrs. Madison, as Molly, as she was familiarly called, as if she had interfered too much in public affairs. There was also some idle scandal about Mrs. Eaton and General Jackson; and in the preside mist election of 1856 and 1860, Mrs. Fremont and Mrs. Douglas were often upon the public tongue. Miss Lane was also occasionally spoken of in the public prints; but none will jeny that the exhibitions now daily reported to us of female influence in our politics, are very different things from the sparse examples of former times, which we have mentioned. Such a character as Mrs. Lincoln has never before ruled at the White House, nor have we ever had rival establishments of our presidential mansion by the dozen, as we now have in Washington, by Canarath Sanatorn etc.

case, as i, in connection with many others, have intherto had but little confidence in any advertised medicines.

For along time I had suffered with extreme debility of the system, accompanied with great derangement of the stomach and liver. In the fall of 1886, I was prostrated by extreme illness, proceeding from the cause above named. I at once procured the services of the most eminent physician of our vicinity, and he in connection with others, attended me patiently and regularly for that of others could suggest, with the greatest attention from my relatives and friends, proved unavailing. I grew worse until my recovery was entirely despaired of, and I made up my mind that human aid was useless. My wife, unwilling to give up, urged me to try Hoofland's Bitter's. In perusing one of your Almanacs, she read of the cure of well-known persons who had ben afflicted in the same manner that I was, although I do not think any one could have been as near as death's door, and became impressed with the idea that the Bitters would cure me. At her earnest solicitation I concluded to take it. The first bottle had apparently no effect, but

TAR SYRUP.

"Facts are stubborn thi ", "says the old proverb, and in these alone do we intend to deal, in presenting WRIGHT'S TAR SYRUP to the public. All know the necessity of guarding against Colds, as well as the necessity for taking the proper remedies when the Colds are upon us. We say, without fear of contradiction, that the superior of Wright's Tar Syrup for the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Bronenitis, and all discassed of the Throat and Lungs, does not exist. Below are testimonials from persons, some of whom are known in all parts of the country."

Dr. R. Shelton Mickenzie, Literary Editor Forney's Philadelphia Press, writes:

Forney's Philadelphia Press, writes:

HILAD ELPHIA, July 20, 1867.

Dear Sir: Last Christmas, for the first time in my life, I was much afflicted by a very severe Cold, with almost constant Cough and sore chest. "Practice makes perfect" the prover's says, but the more I coughed the worse I did it. By what I then considered an accident, but now believe to have been a Frovidence, I was induced to try Dr. Wright's Tar Syrup, purchased from you, and was greatly relieved in two days, wholly cured in ten. It is not unpleasant to the taste, which is a good point. Many years ago, reading my way through an old library, I came across the works of that Bishop Berkeley, who prophetically and truly declared, more than a censury ago, that "Westward the march of Empire takes it way," and among these were two treatises in which he strongly advocated the use of Tar, as curative of many diseases from Catarrh to the plague. I was then struck with the cogency of the good Bishop's arguments, and am now sure—from the efficacy of Dr. Wright's preparation of the same remedy—that they were entirely correct. Yours, truly, that they were entirely correct. Yours, truly,

After using six bottles, health returned, and I am now able to attend to my business. health returned, and I am now able to attend to my business.

S. S. Stevens, Druggist, Reading, Pa., writes:
Mr. J. J. Kromer: The gross of Tar Syrup purchased about three weeks ago is nearly all sold. My customers speak highly of it. Send half a gross of it to my father, at Middletown, Pennsylvania, and charge it to me.
G. B. Vansyckel, Druggist, Trenton, N. J., says: Dr. Wright's Tar Syrup does all you claim for it. I am selling largely of it, and with much satisfaction to my customers.

It is printed on fine white paper, clear type, and convenient in size. The convicts incarcerated in the Str pricon at this place attempted to escape fr prison this alternoon. Their names Orchard and Wilson. Their plan was to prison this siternoon. There has were are Orchard and Wilson. Their plan was to cut out of the ceiling of the chapel now maded as a wish room. These prisoners were employed in the wash room to which and dry the clothes for other prisoners. A rope was procured and the necessary hools for the purpose of cutting dut of the ceiling. The attempt must have been made early in the atternoon, for they had eut through the ceiling and the inside wall, but found that they were in no better condition for escape that a they were harded on the wash room, and they were they better condition for escape that a they were before they had first begun. This being plain to both, Wilson backed out and went down stairs to his quarters. Orchard also came down to the wash-room, and knowing that the sitempt on their part to escape would be known, and fearing punishment at the hands of the warden, formed the idea of making away with his life.

Being missing at the hour of roil call, for the purpose of locking up the prisoners for the night, the Assistant Surgeon of the prison, Mr. Jo. Vannoy, went to look for him. In trying the door of the wash room and fanding it locked, he kicked it open, and saw the body of Orchard hanging by the neck from a rope suspended from the ceiling. Mr. Vannoy immediately cut him down, but life was extinct.
